THE PRESENT SHOW of Shirtwaists is probably, yes, undoubtedly, the most alluring spread of summer daintiness that you have ever had the privilege of visiting in Indianapolis. An example of almost every new style has been placed in open boxes, so arranged that you can take your time and study to your heart's content each fad and fancy of the coming season. Every prevailing design is well represented, from the severe but elegant "shirts" of Fisk, Clarke & Flagg, to the dainty "lingerie" bodices that are real exponents of art in needlecraft.

A letter from the city of Indianapolis was received by Factory Inspector McAbee yesterday in reply to the recent letter from the inspector in reference to alterations at Tomlinson Hall. He says it was purely a formal note, and that when Mr. Stanley has the time they will go over Tomlinson Hall together.

Assistant Attorney General Hadley said vesterday that the provisions for the sale of the grounds and the relocation of the institution were such as: in his opinion, would brook no delay in the matter of the sale, but it was suggested in the attorney general's office that private citizens might purchase the State field with the intention of selling it to the city as soon as it was ready to buy. It is believed by Mr. Hadlev that any delay in the sale of the property would meet with much opposition from outside Marion county, especially if the idea that the State was trying to favor the city, was given circulation. The 14.25 acres of which the State field is composed are worth from $1,000 to $2,000 an acre.

State Organization So Decides at Last Meeting-Officers Are Elected for Year.

All men in business allied to that of the milling trade, such as sack dealers, manufacturers of milling machinery, and the like, may now become members of the Indiana Millers' Association. This was decided at a meeting of the millers held in the Statehouse yesterday morning. Secretary Pickering in his report recommended

Another important amendment to the constitution of the association raising of the annual dues from $5 to $10 and making the membership fee $10. Each member of the association also pledged himself to an effort toward persuading all of the millers in the State to join the association. There are now about 134 millers, out of the 600 in the State, who are members of the association. J. G. Kennedy, a prominent miller of Chicago, addressed the President Martin also made an address. GRAIN DEALERS ALSO SEEK MORE MEMBERS

State Association Concludes Successful Meeting with Session at Statehouse.

The grain dealers, in their last meeting in the Statehouse yesterday morning, followed very much along the lines of the millers in that it was decided that an effort should be made to increase the membership of the organization. There are about 800 grain dealers in the State and only about 300 belong to the organization. A great deal of interest was manifested in the election of State President A. E. Reynolds, of Crawfordsville, as president of the national organization. The boom for Reynolds was launched at Wednesday's joint meeting of grain dealers and millers. President Reynolds, in his address, called attention to the fact that the treasury of the organization was very low and that means should be taken to remedy this state of affairs. A number of addresses by different grain dealers were made, and the meeting adjourned, after hearing re-ports of different committees.

DECISION IN GROTE-COLLINS LEGACY CASE

Judge Carter yesterday afternoon entered a judgment in the Grote-Collins case in favor of Miss Nanette Grote for $5,240, a part of the legacy left her by her father, Francis H. The original legacy was $18,000, but Judge Carter said that since Thomas H Collins, Miss Grote's stepfather, had paid back $2,000 of the legacy which was left to his wife in trust and had expended considerable money in improvements on certain properties included in the estate, he should receive credit for these accounts.
